Bruner disclaims phone calls attacking opponent

BUTTE, MONT. -- Lee Bruner, a Republican candidate for Montana Attorney General, today stated that his campaign was informed Saturday, May 31, 2008, that some voters received phone calls attacking his Republican opponent. Bruner stated that he has no knowledge of the source of these calls, nor the responsible party.

Lee Bruner stated, "As a candidate for Attorney General, it disturbs me that these calls may have been made in violation of Montana law. I am, at this moment, perplexed. All the information I have received is second hand, it is the weekend before the primary election, and I have no idea who is responsible for making the calls." Bruner went on to say that he does not approve of his name being associated with an attack on his opponent. "I made a pledge to run my campaign without resorting to personal vilification, character defamation or whispering campaigns and I have held to that promise throughout the campaign. I am asking that whoever is behind the phone calls to please stop immediately."
